1997 ANNUAL REPORT

BETSEY BAYLESS
SECRETARY OF STATE
STATE OF ARIZONA

I am pleased to present the Fiscal Year 1997 annual report for the Office of the Secretary of State. Under the leadership of then-Secretary of State Jane Dee Hull, this office achieved tremendous accomplishments.

Arizonans have benefited from the significant technological advancements implemented by our excellent staff. The timely unveiling of our web site enabled the Election Division to post the results of the Arizona's first-ever Presidential Preference Election in February, 1996. The success of this service was repeated with the posting of the 1996 primary and general elections results on the Secretary of State's web site.

The web site also provides detailed information on the Uniform Commercial Code filings, notaries public, charitable organizations, The Arizona Administrative Code and lobbyist information.

As your new Secretary of State, I will guide this office in building on the technological advances made to date. My goal is to provide easy access to all Secretary of State filings and provide alternative filing options in order to reduce the amount of paper that currently flows through the office.

Please feel free to e-mail your questions, comments or concerns to bbayless@mail.sosaz.com or contact me at the address or phone number listed below. I look forward to your assistance in providing a web site that will best serve your needs.

Very truly yours,

Betsey Bayless

1996 FALL ELECTIONS

The Secretary of State's Office Election Services Division handled the September 10th Primary Election and the November 5th General Election in which our nation's 42nd President was chosen. The Secretary of State's Office is responsible for the official state canvass which provides a breakdown of statistics from the elections, including voter registration figures, voter turnout and election results. The office released statewide election results on the Internet for the fall elections. Vote totals for all races and issues follow.

Besides electing candidates, Arizona voters made decisions on proposed constitutional amendments and citizen initiatives. Signature petitions accompanied each initiative when filed and each measure had to have a minimum number of required signatures to be placed on the November ballot. The Juvenile Justice Reform (Prop 102) initiative was a constitutional amendment and, therefore, required 169,442 signatures. The Drug Policy Reform (Prop 200), Fairness in Indian Gaming (Prop 201), Healthy Arizona (Prop 202) and Baseball Stadium Tax initiative measures required 112,961 signatures to appear on the ballot. All of those measures appeared on the November ballot except the Baseball Stadium Tax, which failed to file sufficient valid petition signatures with the Secretary of State's Office.

Two counties purchased new ballot tabulating systems in an effort to ease the burden and speed up the process of counting the ballots. Maricopa County bought a new optical scan system to be used for county wide tabulation on election night. Pima County also purchased an optical scan tabulating system, which was used only for counting early (absentee) ballots.

The Secretary of State's Office is a public office that is designed to be as accessible to the people as possible. On the two Voter Registration deadlines, 29 days before each of the fall elections, the office established a drop-off location outside the Capitol to accept last minute voter registration applications. On both nights, the Secretary of State and her employees stood outside from 4:00 p.m. until midnight so that anyone passing by could register to vote in time to cast a ballot in the next election. On both evenings, people continued to bring their registration forms right up until the stroke of midnight - better late than never!

All in all, it was a successful year for the Election Services Division.
